
Aviat Certified Operate Specialist Certification (ACOS) Microwave Switching

Description

The Aviat Certified Operate Specialist Certification (ACOS) is for individuals who will oversee the design, configuration, installation and deployment of projects involving Aviat products and microwave and IP/MPLS technologies.

These individuals need detailed knowledge of installation, configuration, maintenance and ongoing troubleshooting for the Aviat Networks products involved. The Microwave Switching track focuses on the Layer 2 features within the technologies involved.

Students can choose to complete the ACOS certification by training on either the Eclipse or CTR products or both and by completing one or both exams. Ideally, we recommend that training be completed on all relevant products involved in their projects while certification exam may be limited to only one exam. On successful completion of courses and the exam, student will be certified as Aviat Certified Operate Specialist (ACOS).
